Good luck!Interactions of geniposide-derived derivatives with calmodulin: a study by spectroscopic approaches and molecular docking. The interactions of some geniposide-derived derivatives with calmodulin (CaM) were investigated by spectroscopic techniques, such as fluorescence, circular dichroism (CD), and UV-vis absorption methods. The results indicated that all the geniposide-derived derivatives could inhibit the intrinsic fluorescence of CaM, and 4'-O-β-D-glucopyranosylgeniposide showed stronger inhibitory effects, which was attributed to the hydrophobic interaction of 4'-O-β-D-glucopyranosylgeniposide with the hydrophobic cavity of CaM. Among the geniposide-derived derivatives, 4'-O-β-D-glucopyranosylgeniposide showed both the strongest inhibitory effect and the best interaction. According to the fluorescence and UV-vis absorption spectra, as well as CD spectrum simulation, we proposed the binding mode and the binding strength between CaM and 4'-O-β-D-glucopyranosylgeniposide. Molecular docking was used to confirm the interaction mode and the binding strength between the phenolic hydroxyl of 4'-O-β-D-glucopyranos
