GEM IN THE ROUGH: Photoshop Specs and the File Formats it Supports The most important information that you have to know before you dive into Photoshop is about the file formats that it supports. This information is important for the following reasons: * Some software supports only certain formats. If you want to open a file that was created with other software, you may have to convert it. * Some software may ask you for the appropriate format, or it may do the conversion automatically. You can find out what formats Photoshop supports by opening Help, and then clicking Support

Broadcasting on the global web, this webinar will show how you can easily create your own webpages that are up to date, always accessible and attractive. The online world has changed in a few short years. From the way our children communicate through the use of tablets and smartphones to the way our friends and loved ones engage with us through social media channels, there is a greater amount of digital content available to us than ever before. But while the online world has changed, the way we edit and share content hasn't changed nearly as much. Depending on your organisation, the results may mean your content is in danger of becoming outdated, inaccessible or even hard to monetise. At this webinar, we will discuss the problem of the digital divide and show how web pages are still regularly taken offline because of being out of date and inaccessible. But there is also new technology and solutions that can help eliminate this problem. In this webinar, we will show you how to implement a new approach to making your websites always up to date and accessible. We will be discussing the basics of working with HTML, CSS and Javascript. Then we will explore how easy it is to change content and make pages always accessible via assistive technology. Finally, we will touch on how you can utilise mobile optimisation techniques to make your pages visible on the mobile web, on computers and on tablets. Registration is free and the webinar will be recorded and available on-demand. You can also join the webinar via a web browser.
