.Names of Allah (أهل قوم) in Zoroastrianism This Name of Allah e.g. is used in Zend-Avesta, at least for personification of sun, horizon, moon, ocean, air, wind and fire. But

I also remember that in some parchments there are also names of other planets too, like in Persian Zoroastrianism. In Avesta, as well as from Greek to Indian languages, you can also find this word "Bahram", a king of Iran. So in Persian Zoroastrianism, we know this name of

Allah. From Protirosh-Castan, 8th century: O Zaratho-Shapan, you cast your eyes on all nations, and you have an irresistible craving for it, whether it is right or not. But I will be your subject. You are the first among the gods. Let the sky be my friend. Let it be exalted in many places. Let it praise you and extol you. Bless me and me alone. In

History of Persian Zoroastrianism: Some Zoroastrian manuscripts still exist, mostly papryus and zend-avesta, but also they have other names of the god. Let's read from text of zend-avesta: O Lord of the Universe, you who have created the whole world and who know all things
